This Course will meet the Oregon EMS transition requirements.

Robert Delikat served a four year tour in the US Marine Corps where he was introduced to emergency medicine attending Navy Corpsman training at MCRD and Balboa Hospital in 1962. He graduated from San Diego State University in biology where he did graduate work in cellular physiology, taught human anatomy and physiology and later did research at the UCSD Medical School. Robert is a nationally registered paramedic, has been an instructor in PHTLS, AMLS, a training officer and been the primary paramedic instructor on the faculty of the Northwest Regional Training Center and adjunct faculty at the College of Emergency Services. He presently teaches ACLS, PALS, capnography and 12-lead ECG interpretation throughout the Northwest with EMS-ED. He has been regional faculty with the AHA and regularly teaches continuing education at OHSU, Willamette University and many hospitals and fire departments in the greater Portland/Vancouver metropolitan area. Robert has over forty years experience as an educator in biology, EMS and information technology. He is regularly featured as a presenter at EMS conferences.
